Kingsbury Texas

News & Information Newsletter

Dear Kingsbury,

Here's the latest on what's going on in Kingsbury!

Burn Ban Now In Place

You knew it was going to happen - Guadalupe County is now in a burn ban. There were 26 more counties in Texas that went under a burn ban just this week alone.

The Commissioners Court put a 90-day burn ban in place that took effect August 7th. Guadalupe County Fire Marshal, Patrick Pender, reported during Commissioners Court last week that they are seeing a fire every day now. With hay season starting, they have already seen several hay fires and expect to see more.

The burn ban order sets out the regulations for:

- 🔥 Welding, cutting, and grinding or any activity that causes a spark
- 🔥 Burning household trash
- 🔥 Burning of other items

You can see the specifics of the order by clicking here.

Texas is now up to 94 counties with a burn ban in place (there were 68 last week). With 100+ degree days and no rain in sight, that number will only grow

As always, please take precautions and report any fire hazards immediately to the Kingsbury Volunteer Fire Department at 639-4499. To report a fire, please dial 911.

Full Sturgeon Moon

This Thursday night, August 15th, is the Full Sturgeon Moon.

Some Native American tribes called the August Moon the "Sturgeon Moon" because they knew that the sturgeon of the Great Lakes and Lake Champlain were most readily caught during this Full Moon. They also called August's Moon the "Full Green Corn Moon."

Different tribes and different cultures gave the full moon in August many names:

Dakotah Sioux - Moon When All Things Ripen
Ojibwe - Blueberry Moon
Algonquin - Moon When Indian Corn Is Edible
Arapaho - Moon When Geese Are Shedding Their Feathers
Cherokee - The Drying Up Moon
Comanche - Summer Moon
Shawnee - Plum Moon
Choctaw - Courting Time Moon
Cree - Moon When Young Ducks Begin To Fly
Hopi - Moon of Joyful
Lakota - Moon of the Ripening
Mohawk - Time of Freshness Moon
Shawnee - Plum Moon
Sioux - Moon When Cherries Turn Black

Colonial American - Dog Days Moon
Chinese - Harvest Moon
Celtic - Dispute Moon
Neo Pagan - Lightning Moon
Medieval English - Corn Moon

MOON FOLKLORE

- Clothes washed for the first time in the full Moon will not last long.
- If you glimpse the new Moon over your right shoulder, you will have good luck.
 - To have a project prosper, start it during the new Moon.
- Babies born a day after the full Moon enjoy success and endurance.

Meteor Shower Peak

The annual Perseid meteor shower is one of the most beloved meteor showers of the year, especially in the Northern Hemisphere, where the shower peaks on warm summer nights. No matter where you live worldwide, the 2019 Perseid meteor shower will probably produce the greatest number of meteors on the mornings of August 11, 12 and 13. Unfortunately, on the peak mornings in 2019, a bright moon will drown many Perseids from view.

People tend to focus on the peak mornings of meteor showers, and that's entirely appropriate. But meteors in annual showers – which come from streams of debris left behind in space by comets – typically last weeks, not days. Perseid meteors have been streaking across our skies since around July 17. We'll see Perseids for 10 days or so after the peak mornings on August 11, 12 and 13.

Also remember, the Delta Aquariid and Alpha Capricornid meteor showers are still rambling along steadily. You'll see mostly Perseids, but also some others in the mix. The Perseids are active from July 17 to August 24. They reach a strong maximum on August 12-13 this year. Normal rates seen from rural locations range from 50-

75 shower members per hour at maximum. The Perseids are particles released from comet 109P/Swift-Tuttle during its numerous returns to the inner solar system.

In a typical year, although the meteor numbers increase after midnight, the Perseid meteors still start to fly at mid-to-late evening from northerly latitudes. South of the equator, the Perseids start to streak the sky around midnight. If fortune smiles upon you, the evening hours might offer you an earthgrazer – a looooong, slow, colorful meteor traveling horizontally across the evening sky. Earthgrazer meteors are rare but memorable. Perseid earthgrazers appear before midnight, when the radiant point of the shower is close to the horizon.

General rules for Perseid-watching. No special equipment, or knowledge of the constellations, needed.

- ☞ Find a dark, open sky to enjoy the show. An open sky is essential because these meteors fly across the sky in many different directions and in front of numerous constellations.
- ☞ Give yourself at least an hour of observing time, because the meteors in meteor showers come in spurts and are interspersed with lulls. Remember, your eyes can take as long as 20 minutes to adapt to the darkness of night. So don't rush the process.
- ☞ Know that the meteors all come from a single point in the sky. If you trace the paths of the Perseid meteors backwards, you'd find they all come from a point in front of the constellation Perseus. Don't worry about which stars are Perseus. Just enjoying knowing and observing that they all come from one place on the sky's dome.
- ☞ Enjoy the comfort of a reclining lawn chair. Bring along some other things you might enjoy also, like a thermos filled with a hot drink.

Remember ... all good things come to those who wait. Meteors are part of nature. There's no way to predict exactly how many you'll see on any given night. Find a good spot, watch, wait.

You'll see some!
